PLAYTEST SESSION BRIEF

doesplaydice.com

Open play tells you people had fun. This tells you what to change.

DATE | WHERE | NARRATOR | NO. OF PLAYERS

TICK THE ONE THING TONIGHT IS TESTING

☐ Can a stranger start playing in 15 minutes?	Watch where they stall and which sentence they re-read.
☐ Does the tie rule land?	Most distinctive rule, easiest to fumble. Does the Narrator improvise or freeze?
☐ Do people use all three stats?	If everything gets solved Physically, the obstacles aren't offering three routes.
☐ Do the campaign rules break the one-page feel?	Both are meant to work at one table. This is the real test of that promise.
☐ Does a 40-minute convention slot work?	Timed, with pregens and the real kit. No teaching beforehand.

FILL IN AT THE END — TWO MINUTES

Time to first dice roll from sitting down. The best single measure of "easy to start."

Rules questions asked
just a tally is fine

Did they finish?
if it fizzled, at what point

YES / NO — _____

Would they play again?
ask out loud, and watch the pause before the answer

ALL / MOST / SOME / NO

THE TWO QUESTIONS THEY ACTUALLY ASKED — WORD FOR WORD

Exact wording matters more than your summary of it. It's usually the fix.

THE ONE THING YOU'D CUT

Not add. Cut. There is always something.

ANYTHING ELSE WORTH REMEMBERING

Before you leave the table: photograph this sheet and the feedback slips. That's the whole loop — it doesn't work if the paper goes in a bag and stays there.
